Pierce Transit Celebrate Arrival Of Gilling Buses

On May 16, Pierce Transit celebrated the arrival of the first five new Gillig buses. P. T. has purchased thirty-nine on the new coaches from Gillig Corporation of Hayward, California.

Pierce Transit Chairman of the Board Rose Marie Raudebaugh, and Executive Director Don S. Monroe christened the new fleet with a ceremonial bottle of champagne. While Chairman Raudebaugh didn't actually break the bottle, the ceremony was celebrating a major event for Pierce Transit. The thirty-nine new Gillig uses represent the first new bus purchase that Pierce Transit has made in its five year existence.

The new Gilligs are all equipped with wheelchair lifts and kneeling capabilities to meet the agency's commitment to accessible service. These state-of-the-art buses are also able to travel steep grades as well as freeway-type driving, allowing them to be used throughout the service area.

The buses will begin service June 1st. The remainder of the thrity-nine buses will be delivered in groups of three and five each week until all buses have arrived at Pierce Transit.

African Development Bank Bill Becomes Law

(Olympia) New law will allow state savings banks to invest in the African Development Bank to support agricultural, transportation, power, school and hospital projects in developing African nations.

Governor Booth Gardner, today, signed into law Senate Bill 3225, introduced by Senator George Fleming (D-37th District), which allows state savings banks to invest up to five percent of their funds in the development bank. Fleming said the need is great to imporve development opportunities for some of the world's poorest nations.

"The major problem in most African nations is malnutrition," Fleming noted, "which not only destroys the people, but also the productivity." A massive agricultural program is underway to provide food necessary to support the pouplace of the second largest continent. Many countries are capable of becoming the breadbasket for others.

When the agricultural needs are met, Africa offers great potential for energy and mineral production. Africa's potential for hydroelectric power, for example, is 40-percent of all hydro production in the world. Oil prospects are another great untapped resource.

Perhaps 72-percent of the world's strategic materials--cobalt, chrome, manganese, uranium and vanadium--are to be found in Africa, virtually the only continent with sources of supply.

"This law will give our financial institutions the investment opportunity, which will be profitable for them, while helping many of the people of greatest need," Fleming said.

State law currently permits savings banks to make such investments in the Asian Development Bank, the InterAmerican Development Bank, and the International Bank for Reconstruction and Development.

In 1963, 33 African nations met to establish the development bank to make loans to member nations for agricultural and infrastructure development. A major emphasis of the bank has been agricultrual productivity, since starving nations are not productive nations.

In 1981, Congress approved legislation to authorize U.S. participation in the African Development Bank, which was established 17 years earlier to help finance needed projects. With passage of Fleming's bill by the Senate and the House and the concurrence of the governor, state banking institutions will now be able to pursue such investment opportunities, bringing state law into conformance with federal law.

Secretary Samuel Pierce Announces Housing Vouchers Program

Housing and Urban Development Secretary Samuel R. Pierce, Jr., awarded nearly 3000 housing vouchers to 41 Public Housing Agencies (PHAs) selected to participate in the Small PHA and Rural Area Housing Voucher demonstration. The budget authority for the Small PHA Voucher program is $52,850,000 over five years.

"The housing voucher program is an approach to housing assistance that offers very low-income families quality housing at about half the cost of new construction," Secretary Pierce said. "More inmportant, participating families are not restricted to specific units as is true in the public housing programs."

"This demonstration," the Secretary added, "will show that vouchers are the most efficient vehicle for providing housing assistance to low-income families, regardless of where they live - in big cities, small towns, or rural areas."

Secretary Pierce noted that past housing programs have relied primarily on new construction or substantial rehabilitation, which has contributed to a multi-billion dollar housing debt and proven costly to taxpayers. "Vouchers offer families the freedom to choose the type of housing and the location that is best for them," he said.

Under the housing voucher program, HUD provides assistance to help very low-income families live in privately-owned housing. The housing voucher program provides a cash payment by the Public Housing Agencies to landlords on behalf of eligible families to help them pay their rent. The housing voucher subsidy represents the difference between an average monthly rent for a particular area and 30 percent of a family's monthly income. The household is free to choose a single-family or multi-family unit, remaining in their current unit or, by exercising their freedom for complete mobility, move to any area in the United States where there is a PHA-operated voucher demonstration

The Public Housing Agencies will use their Section 8 Existing Housing Certificate program current waiting lists to determine which families will receive vouchers. Eligibility will be limited to those with incomes below 50 percent of the median income for the area where they live.

The Small PHA and Rural Housing Voucher demonstration will extend the use of vouchers to samll and rural PHAs Thirty-three small or rual Public Housing Agencies and 8 states and multi-county PHAs were chosen as demonstration sites.

Reagan

The Reagan Administration offered a compromise on the MX missile that would temporarily limit deployment to 50 weapons.

The offer in response to a rising chorus of complaints about the huge missile, is exactly half of the Administration's original plan: to house 100 missile in existing silos on the Western plains.

In effect, the Administration has conceded defeat, at least for now, in its efforts to field a full MX force. But the White House wants to leave open the possibility of requesting more missiles in the future, in case arms control talks break down and tensions rise with the Soviet Union.

Words Of Wisdom

JUDGES 16

And it came to pass afterward, that he loved a woman in the valley of Sorek, whose name was Delilah.

And the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and said unto her, Entice him, and see wherein his great strength lieth, and by what means we may prevail against him, that we may bind him to affflict him: and we will give thee every one of us eleven hundred pieces of silver.

And Delilah said to Samson, Tell me, I pray thee, wherin thy great strength lieth, and wherewith thou mightest be bound to afflict thee.

And Samson said unto her, If they bind me with seven green withs that were never dried, than shall I be weak, and be as another man.

Then the lords of the Philistines brought up to her seven green withs which had not been dried, and she bound him with them.

Now there were men lying in wait, abiding with her in the chamber. And she said unto him, The Philistines be upon theee, Samson. And he brake the withs, as a thread of tow is broken when it toucheth the fire. So his strength was not known.

And Delilah said unto Samson, Behold, thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: now tell me, I pray thee, wherewith thou mightest be bound.

And he said unto her, If they bind me fast with new ropes that never were occupied, then shall I be weak, and be as another man.

Delilah therefore took new ropes, and bound him therwith, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And there were liers in wait abiding in the chamber. And he brake them from off his arms like a thread.

And Delilah said unto Samson,Hitherto thou hast mocked me, and told me lies: tell me wherewith thou mightest be bound. And he said unto her, If thou weavest the sever locks of my head with the web.

And she fastened it with the pin, and said unto him, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And awaked out of his sleep, and went away with the pin of the beam, and with the web.

And she said unto him How canst thou say, I love thee, when thine heart is not with me? thou has mocked me these three times, and hast not told me wherein thy great strength lieth.

And it came to pass, when she pressed him daily with her words, and urged him, so that his soul was vexed unto death;

That he told her all his heart, and said unto her, There hath not come a razor upon mine head; for I have been a Nazarite unto God from my mother's womb: if I be shaven, then my strength will go from me, and I shall become weak, and be like any other man.

And when Delilah saw that he had told her all his heart, she sent and called for the lords of the Philistines, saying, Come up this once, for he hath shewed me all his heart. Then the lords of the Philistines came up unto her, and brought money in their hand.

And she made him sleep upon her knees; and she called for a man, and she caused him to shave off the seven locks of his head; and she began to afflict him and his strength went from him.

And she said, The Philistines be upon thee, Samson. And he awoke out of his sleep, and said, I will go out as at other times before, and shake myself. And he wist not that the Lord was departed from him.

Rock Group Benefit Kidney Foundation

On Sunday night, May 26th, the curtain at Parker's Nightclub on Aurora will rise on some of Seattle's favorite entertainers as they perform for the benefit of the Northwest Kidney Foundation. This year's show features top name bands Moving parts, the Cowboys, and the New Flamingos playing some of the most danceable music in the Northwest. Popular local personality John Keister will be on hand to act as Master of Ceremonies, and "Tiny Tony", one of Seattle's legendary rhythm and blues masters will be there to add to the magic in an all-band-jam.

This unique rock benefit was inspired last year by Moving Parts whose keyboardist, Tom Morrison is a victim of kidney failure. Tom and "Tiny Tony" must undergo treatment with an artificial kidney machine in order to stay alive. "Kidney Rock II' is the band's way of saying "thanks" for Tom's and "Tiny Tony's" second chance at life, while making a contribution to efforts that will find the answers to the problems of kidney disease for others.

The Perkins's will be featured May 25, 10 a.m. to noon, at Fort Steilacoom Community College for the May Alcoholism Awareness Hour, fourth in the spring series co-sponsored by the FSCC Alcoholism and Drug Abuse STudies program and the community-based Chemical Abuse Resource Enterprise (C A.R.E.). ## "The Doctors Prescription

Nor Things To Come

Pessimism may be the psychological plague of the late 20th century - and Christian believers have found that not even faith provides immunity. Some of the most successful books on the evangelical market have been cheerless previews of apocalypse. Even a recent motion picture plays on the theme. I have met young people immobilized by fear of the future. Nothing seems worth doing, because the world may fall apart in the middle of the doing. A dedicated Christian couple tole me recently, "We're not going to have any children. We don't want to bring them into a world that may self-destruct."

Authors are building financial security for themselves by selling uncertainty to others. Preachers' gloomy predictions of things to come though well-intentioned, are not only scaring hell out of unbelievers, but heaven out of believers. Christians are more shaken than they have any right to be. Faith equates with confidence, not with fear. Scripture does not authorize Christians to cringe or cower.

For one thing, there is no stormproof shelter that offers physical security. Where would you take cover to escape apocalypse?

For another, there is the magnificent conclusion of Roman 8. You remember how Paul said it:

"For I am persuaded, that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come,

Nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

Romans 8:38,39

This passage has always been a favority of mine - a shelter in the time of storm, a beacon in darkness, an encouragement in despair. But only recently I rediscovered what I think is one of its most important and most neglected phrases.

"Nor things to come . . ."

This is not something to be read only at funerals. It means things to come at any time. Things that happen anywhere. Things that happen on our own street, in our own family, on our own job.

"Nor things to come . . ."

Words to be written over our fears! Emblazoned over the lintel of tomorrow! Embedded in our hopes!

Things to come, whatever they may be, hold no paralyzing terror for those whose Lord is Jesus Christ. We live with unquenchable confidence, not so much knowing what or when or where, as WHO.

The sin in fear is that it causes us to hold back to hoard our talents, or resources or life itself. It is the enemy of sharing, cautioning us to hold on to that crust of bread rather than to cast it on the waters. To risky, fear says.

But faith says, "Nor things to come . . ."

Four little words that restore our perspective, cool our feverish self-centeredness, unclench our fists, straighten our backs, get us going again.

"Nor things to come . . ."

always it is the future that we worry about most. Things present we somehow cope with, however distressing. Nine-tenths of fear hides in the future tense. Fear lives not in the known but in the unknown. Not in what is already here but in what hasn't yet arrived. But see! "Neither . . . things present, nor things to come."

Faith is always for the unexplored place, the experience we have not yet had. Faith is the force that starts our blood circulating, our juices flowing, our thoughts and feet and hands moving. Abraham "went out, not knowing whither he went." What he did know was with WHOM he went. That was enough.

"Neither things present."

"Nor things to come."

1 JOHN 5

WHOSOEVER believeth that Jesus is the Christ is born of God: and every one that loveth him that begat loveth him also that is begotten of him.

By this we know that we love the children of God, when we love God, and keep his commandments.

For this is the love of God, that we keep his commandments.

For whatsoever is born of God overcometh the world: and this is the victory that overcometh the world, even our faith.

Who is he that overcometh the world, but he that believeth that Jesus is the Son of God?

This is he that came by water and blood, even Jesus Christ; not by water only, but by water and blood. And it is the spirit that beareth witness, because the Spirit is truth.

For there are three that bear record in heaven, the Father, the Word, and the Holy Ghost: and these three are one.

And there are three that bear witness in earth, the spirit, and the water, and the blood: and these three agree in one.

Tony Brown's Comments

Blacks Produce Unemployment And White Wealth.

The current edition of Black Enterprise magazine reports that the "Top 100 Black Businesses" increased their sales by 10 percent over the previous year, to a respectable $2.5 billion.

This was due largely to an improved economy, especially the automotive industry which counts 44 of its dealer among the BE top 100.

It also demonstrates that Blacks in business are not the intended victims or benefactors of the White House, but hostages to the flow of consumer buying power.

And the Black consumer used every bit of his or her buying power to produce America's unprecedented economic recovery last year. But their $170 billion was spent almost exclusively with non-Blacks.

In effect, the Black community deprived Black businesses of their real potential and through the uneducated use of its buying power exacerbated its own social and political problems.

The American economy improved last year at a rate of growth only second to post World War II. But this unprecedented recovery left Blacks behind with a higher rate of adult unemployment and staggering social problems.

While their money fueled the recovery, it moved essentially from Black to White hands and remained there. This is the reason, I believe, that Blacks economically do not move in tandem with the rest of the country.

Mrs. G. B., a White woman in Cleveland, also agrees with me. In a letter, she responded to my guest on television who had blamed recism and Whites for the failure of integration and the sub-standard economic condition of African-Americans.

Mrs. G. B. said, "The White people did not ask the Blacks to integrate with Whites. Let's be fair and tell it like it was. The Blacks forced themselves by law to integrate with Whites."

But she saved her best advice to refute my guest's assertion that the poverty among African-Americans is heaped upon them by Euro-Americans. "If he would spend his time supporting and showing Black people how to support their own businesses," his energies would be put to better use.

"Many Black-owned businesses are not supported by Black people of their own community. The only way they can stay open (if they do) is by White people who patronize Black businesses." Her statement is backed by the facts.

Last year, Black-owned companies earned only 7 percent of the entire $170 billion spent by Blacks. In 1969, Blacks spent 13.5 percent of their income with a Black business. Therefore, you can see that the trend is toward a larger transference of wealth out of the Black community.

Even in areas where there is no doubt about comparable quality and price, White companies win hands down. For example, Revlon and Alberto-Culver get 70 percent of the money that Blacks spend for hair-care products. Again, This is another example of the trend among Blacks to spend less with one another. In 1980, they spent only 41 percent with a White hair-care firm.

It all boils down to economics.

If you spend your money with a Black business, you will produce a job for a Black person and a stable citizen because America is a segregated society (and Blacks did not and do not segregate it). You will also create Black businesses.

If you spend your money with non-Whites, because of the segregation patterns and other groups' unity around religion and culture, you create jobs and income for that group.

Every group in America recycles its wealth among its members. The clear exception being African-Americans -- whose dream of equality is social acceptance, unlike all other groups who have earned social acceptance with their own consumer power.

If you want to stop the problem, become a founding member--free--of the first annual Black Consumer Market Month beginning this October.

Write me at 1501 Broadway-Suite 2014, New York, NY 10036. If you also want a free copy of the next issue of my magazine which outlines how we can support Black businesses and create our own jobs by recycling our $170 billion, send .88 cents in stamps.

Remember, the facts don't lie. And neither does the White lady from Cleveland.

Justice Department Trying To Roll Back The Clock

Instead of devoting its resources and energies to removing the remaining vestiges of racial discrimination, the Justice Department is trying to dismantle affirmative action programs that have resulted in major gains for blacks and other minorities and women.

Its latest shot against affirmative action came last month when it took the City of Indianapolis to court. The city's crime? It is implementing consent decrees ordered by federal courts in 1978 and 1979 to desegregate its police and fire departments.

Before the decrees those vital public services had few blacks, the clear result of discrimination. To redress that wrong, the city agreed to fill a percentage of its training classes with qualified minorities.

That's what bothers the Justice Department. Those numerical "quotas" I have to wonder if they would be as upset by the quotas blacks have always been subjected to -- the ones freezing us out of jobs and creating segregated workforces.

The Indianapolis case is just the start of what looks like a last-ditch effort to scrap affirmative action plans that include numerical goals. Earlier this year the Department sent letters to over 50 cities that had signed similar consent decrees, advising them to ditch their court-ordered plans and substitute new, vague programs without numerical goals.

The Justice Department bases its views on last year's supreme Court decision that overturned affirmative action plan of the Memphis fire department.

But the Memphis case is simply not applicable. That case concerned the conflict between an affirmative action goals and seniority protections embodied in a union contract. The Court said the contractual seniority provisions had to take precedence in making layoffs for budgetary.

Not only is the Memphis case not applicable, but every single time the Justice Department has challenged similar court orders designed to reverse discriminatory hiring results, it has lost. It will lose again this time, too.

Indianapolis has insisted that the plan has worked for the total good of all of the city's citizens and that it won't change it unless forced to. The other cities on the Justice Department hit list say the same thing -- that the department's view of the law is all wrong and that they will fight any attempt to change their compliance practices.

It is important to see what the Justice Department is trying to do here. First, it is threatening cities with legal action unless they defy perfectly valid previous court orders. The Justice Department, supposed to enforce the law as interpreted by the courts, is encouraging defiance of those courts.

Second, the department is reopening old wounds that are in the process of healing.

When those decrees were originally handed down, it was at the end of long, bitter struggles in and out of the courts. Communities were disrupted and the facts of scandalous discriminatory hiring and promotion policies were made public.

With the decrees, action was taken to right the wrongs done minorities and women. But instead of encouraging a process that resulted in expanded opportunities and desegregated local government workforces, the department is trying to tear that progress down.

The Justice Department's action would destroy black, minority and female gains, increase social tensions, and defy the authority of the courts. Congress ought to step in and stop this blatantly irresponsible campaign.

Evans Says Budget Compromise Meets The Test

"It's big, bold and does the task we need to do," said Senator Daniel J Evans (R-WA) of the Senate budget resolution passes early this morning which cuts the 1986 deficit by $56 billion and by $295 billion over three years.

"This is a tough package. It has a lot of elements that no one likes very much, but we can't forget what is most important -- the very real and tangible benefit that comes out of these actions. We have finally turned the tide on the deficit and we're going to see lower interest reates, lower increases in the cost of living, more jobs and a better economy," Evans said "This package is good for the country and I believe that's why it passed."

The vote, which finally came at 3:30 a.m. was for a substitute package replacing the original which had gone through a week of amendments that would have added $17 billion over three years back into the deficit. The new compromise passed 50 to 49 with Vice President Bush casting the tie-breaker. In lowering the 1986 deficit to $171 billion, it freezes defense spending at 1985 levels plus inflation; freezes for one year the cost of living increases on Social Security and retirement for veterans, military and civilian employees; has no tax increases; and terminates, freezes or reduces several domestic spending programs.

Evans said when it got down to funding a package that could be passed, he was looking for as much equity as possible. "We needed to budget categories. I think we achieved that fairness with something very close to an across-the -board freeze. In addition, we looked for certain programs that could take deeper cuts -- programs which have reached the end of their effectiveness and others which we could delay a little without too serious consequences," he explained.

"Some of these cuts are hard to take. And I feel uneasy about others, but ultimately we had to balance a one-year freeze on cost-of-living increaseses for Social Security receipients, federal employees and retirees with a freeze on military spending," Evans explained. "We all talk about the pain this will cause, but we forget the benefits. lower interest rates and a lower cost-of-living means Social Security recipients will pay less than they otherwise would for food, clothing and rent. And it's just as much a benefit to the military to see its cost of supplies and new equipment lowered."

While the state of Washington will bear its fair share of the cuts, Evans said there were several areas in the compromise he considered a plus for the state.

"Between the initial package proposed and the one we passed this morning, we made gains in mass transit support that sould allow the Seattle bus tunnel to proceed. We were able to preserve impact aid for students whose parents live or work on federal military installations in the state. Important funds for economic development efforts under the Small Business Administration were retained and student financial aid was broadened," he said.

"All in all, the state of Washington fared remarkably well. A lot of credit must go to Senator Gorton who serves on the Senate Budget Committee and who was a very important orce in crafting this budget effort. He kept his eye on the needs of the state."

Evans said the termination of the direct loan program of the Export-Import Bank was a disappointment. "It's very important to the sales of Washington products overseas, particularly the sale of Boeing planes. However, we did manage to preserve and even expand an alternative program of interest subsidies. It's not as good, but it has sufficient money to help with an effective program of international sales.

Summing up his feeling about the ocmpromise package, Evans said, "We've finally taken positive action to deal with the deficit. There will be some initial pain but there will be many rewards that should occur rather rapidly. I'm confident that lower costs, the re-invigoration of our economy and seven million new jobs over the next three years are ample rewards for the immediacy of these budget cutbacks and the short term problems they create."

More Than Tunnel Vision Required

Last month, in a column in the Chicago Tribune, columnist Clarence Page told of a recent conversation he had with Robert L. Woodson, Black civil rights organizer turned born-again Reagnite.

Woodson's conversion is so complete that the language he uses to push the Reagan line is slicker and more deceptive than that used by the old master himself. Woodson, who is a big-wig in the Washington-based council for a Black Economic Agenda and spends a lot of his time speaking before such right-wing control groups as the Heritage Foundation, likes to demean the historic struggle for civil rights in this country by referring to it as the "alms race."

Here are some of the other fancy statements he employs to throw the unthinking off track: "Do you want the redistribution of income or the creation of wealth? We have to be concerned with the health of the golden goose as we are with the distribution of the golden eggs.... If the only tool you have is a hammer, then all problems begin to look like nails."

Very few Black leaders are against the acceleration of entrepreneurial effort as one of the methods to advance the economic status of Black Americans. But the Woodson group sounds and acts like this self-help method has not been tried before, when in fact it has been at the center of black philosophy since slavery. What do they think Booker T. Washington was talking about when he admonished Blacks to "let down" their buckets where they were, or Dr. W.E.B. Dubois was advocating when he attempted to infuse the "talented tenth" of the race with burning ambition? Haven't they heard about the International Trade Bureau of Operation P.U.S.H.?

This is not to say that the Woodson group doesn't have some good ideas. Undoubtedly, planned self-help programs direct Black energies into positive channels and make us feel good about ourselves. Likewise, hard-headed Black business initiatives create more successful Black corporations and improve the Black employment picture. But these approaches, by themselves, will not cure our horrible unemployment problem nor allow the growth of the Black underclass.

We cannot follow the Woodson group into the trap of waiting for prosperity to trickle down from the coffers of the rich, be they Black or White. This formula for "eternal prosperity" did work more than 50 years ago, when the industrial revolution was at its apex. Unquestionably then, there is no reason to believe it will work now when the economic base of the country is being eroded by the substitution of capital-intensive, high technology industries for labor-intensive industries such as coal, steel and textiles, threatening to turn us into a nation of high-paid bureaucrats and low-paid floor sweepers.

With respect to the immediate role of Black America, i stand by what I wrote in this column shortly after last year's national election:

"First, we must build unity among ourselves by developing bold agendas and setting creative priorities. During this period, which is not unlike those dark days immediately following Reconstruction, we cannot afford the luxury of fractured and fragmented approaches to our problems."

Today I add: The vision of no single group is broad enought to explore the terrain for us all.

This week's first prize Jackpot: $2,500,000 Lotto

You could win thousands, even millions, when you play Lotto, the new game from the Washington State Lottery. Because the jackpot grows 'til somebody wins! It's fun to play, and it's easy.

How to play.

Pick up a free Lotto play slip at any On-Line Games Agent. The play slip is divided into 10 games, each with a field of numbers from 1 to 40.

Decide how many games you want to play. You play two games for a dollar, and can play up to 10 games on a single play slip. The minimum play is one dollar.

Pick 6 numbers out of 40 for each game you play. Using pen or pencil (not red), mark the 6 numbers you've selected on the play slip for each game. Games must be played in pairs. You receive two games for each $1 played.

Hand the completed play slip to your On-Line Agent. The agent will enter it into the Ticket Distribution Machine, which will print out a Lotto ticket showing the numbers you selected, the drawing date, and the amount you played. The agent will return your play slip for possible future use.

Check your ticket. It is your responsibility to check your Lotto ticket to make sure it corresponds with the numbers you selected. Be sure to keep your ticket until after that week's drawing, as proof of purchase.

Quick Play option. If you prefer, the On-Line computer will randomly select six numbers for each game you wish to play. Just tell the Agent you want a "Quick Play" and state how many games you're playing.

How much you can win.

Evergreen Lotto is a parimutuel game, so the size of the jackpot depends upon how many people play. If more than one person wins, they share the Jackpot equally. The Lottery guarantees that the cash value of the First Prize Jackpot will be at least $500,000, no matter how many people play.

It could grow into the millions—all for the person (or to be divided equally among the persons) who match in any order all 6 winning numbers.

The second prize share is divided among all players who match 5 out of 6 winning numbers in any order and the third prize share is divided among all those who match 4 out of 6 winning numbers in any order. These prizes are determined by total Lotto sales and number of winners each week.

All prizes with a cash value of $250,000 or more will be paid in the form of a multiple-year annuity.

How to collect your prize.

Winning amounts will be announced to the public through the media and On-Line Sales Agents every Monday at 9 a.m. Prizes of up to $600 can be collected at any On-Line location. Winners of larger amounts must file a claim form with the Lottery. Forms are available from any Lottery Agent.

| Lotto Winning Numbers Matched by Players: | Probability of Winning per Play: | Lotto Probability of Winning per $1.00* |

Mural Donated To Courthouse In Seattle.

In a May 17 ceremony at the U.S. Courthouse in Seattle, the Northwest Regional Office of the U.S. General Services Administration will formally accept two murals commissioned as part of the Federal Government's Art-In-Architecture Program. The murals are titled "The Effects of Good and Bad Government", and were painted by Caleb Bach, an artist from Carbondale, Colorado. The artwork will be displayed in the entrance lobby of the U.S. Courthouse.

The murals Draw their inspiration from two 14th century paintings by Italian artist Ambrogio Lorenzetti, which are in the town hall of Siena, Italy. The 9-by-5-foot paintings contract god and bad Government. As depicted by artist Bach, the effect of good Government is a society united for the common good. Justice, fortitute, prudence, magnanimity, temperance, peace, faith, and hope, guided by the spirit of charity, survey a tranquil world. The family unit is society's foundation. Built upon it are education, farming, commerce, industry, recreation, the arts, crafts and other endeavors that flourish in a society dedicated to good Government.

In the effects of bad Government, tyranny reigns, supported by war, treachery, discord, fury, fraud, and cruelty. Above them slavery, poverty, crime, prostitution, torture, and other evils that spawn in a bad Government.

GSA included the artwork as part of a major renovation of the U.S. Courthouse. This work included the addition of a new U.S. District Courtroom, judges chambers, and law library. In addition, all public areas were refurnished and mechanical and electrical systems were upgraded. The renovation work is nearly complete.

A six-member selection panel picked Mr. Bach to create the artwork for the U.S. Courthouse project. The panel members included:

Richard Andrews of Art in Public Places of Seattle,
Jim Daly of Hewitt/Daly/Isley architectural firm,
Marcia Waggoner of the Seattle center for Contemporary Art,
Janice Niemi of the Washington State House of Representatives,
Dianne Vanderlip, Curator of the Denver Art Museum ,
Jay Belloli, Director of the Baxter Art Museum of California Institute of Technology,
Judge Donald S. Vorhees of the U.S. District Court served as a consultant to the panel.

The courthouse, located at 5th Avenue and Madison Streets in downtown Seattle, was built in 1940, and is on the National Register of Historic Places.
